Imagine a convenience bait combining the best bits about pellets and boilies, which stays on your hook or hair rig superbly – and which catches loads of fish!

Meet Skinz Hookbaits...

You can use Skinz Hookbait Pellets straight from the bag. In their dry form they sink slowly and are perfect for fishing on-the-drop. But the most effective way to use them is to soak them before hooking.

Simply drop a few of these oval shaped baits into a bait tub of water and leave them for a few minutes. You will notice they swell slightly as they absorb water.

The longer you soak them the softer they'll get, but because of their special skin they will not disintegrate or become too soft for hooking.

With Water Soluble Flavours

Skinz take on flavours readily, so why not add a squirt of your personal favourite to the water they're soaking in for added attraction?

Flavouring With Oil-based Liquids

Skinz will also absorb oil-based liquids, though these take longer to penetrate the outer coating.

Drop a handful into screw-top glug pot.

Cover with your chosen oil-based bait additive such as salmon oil or cold pressed hemp extract.

Allow to stand overnight, and check consistency periodically.

Colouring Skinz

Skinz are currently only available in their natural biscuity hue.

If you want to pep up their visual attraction they can be coloured with bait dye or food colouring.

1 Place some soaked Skinz in a dry bait tub or small pot.

2 Pour on food colouring such as cochineal. Bait dye can also be used.

3 Give the tub a vigorous shake to evenly distribute the colouring.

4 The Skinz are now evenly coated and ready to hook.

5 They perform best when soaked, so simply add water/flavour to the coloured Skinz.

Bait Sensation

Boom Time With Baggies

1 'Baggies' is the nickname given to a Skinz Hookbait Pellet which has been encouraged to swell to around twice its normal size.

2 After squeezing hard between the fingertips, return your 'Baggie' to the soak and watch it grow into a super-soft stand out hookbait to present over a bed of smaller feed.

Skinz On The Feeder

Although you may imagine a soft bait like Skinz would be restricted to angling with poles or close range wagglers, you'd be wrong. They're well up to the tough tasks required when feeder fishing too.

Loading Your Hook Try hair-rigging a pair of Skinz, a tactic which has already brought some very big carp up to 50lb!

Flat Bed Method

A Skinz-baited hook concealed in a Method feeder is sure to score on the bigger commercials.

Open-end Cage

Bream, tench, chub and barbel are sure to love 'em as well as carp, so give Skinz a try on the open-end feeder on mixed fisheries too.
